Senator Beck reported ry machinery and appliances would not from the Committee on Appropriations with amendments to the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill, and gave notice that he would call it up at an early day. The Senate Judiciary Committee at a special meeting this morning took action upon the bill introduced by Senator Faton yesterday "To prohibit military interference at elections," and by a party vote decided to recommend its passage with two amendments. The first provides that bills of prohibition against bringing to or employing troops at the polls shall not apply to the use of military force "when necessary to protect the State against invasion." The other amend-ment inserts the words "when the legislature cannot be convened" after the clause which exempts from prohibition the employment of the army or nave to enforce the fourth section of Article IV of the Constitution, and the laws made in pursuance thereof, "upon the application of the legislature or the executive of any State." The principal amendments made by the Senate Committee on Appropriations to the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill as reported to the Senate to-day are those which were agreed upon by the committee vesterday evening including the omission of the House clause directing ten million of reserves to be issued in payment of the arrears of HOUSE. The morning hour was consumed the introduction and reference of bills.

The House concurred in Senate amendment to the bill providing for certain expenses of the present session. Knott, chairman on Judiciary, reported back without amendment the bill introduced yesterday to prohibit interference at elections. Robeson offered a substitute making it unlawful to bring to or employ at any place where a general or special election is being held in any State, any part of the army or navy, unless such employment shall be necessary to carry out the provisions cible obstruction to the execution of the laws made in pursuance thereof, and making any viola ion of that act a penal offense. The s. bs itute is entitled "A bill to further protect the freedom of elections." Robeson's substitute bill was defeat ed. The vote stood, yeas, 93; nays, 121, after which the original bill to prohibit military interference at elections was passed by a strict party vote.

Mr. Chalmers attempted to call up the resolution heretofore offered by him, for the investigation of the Fort Pillow massacre, but the House adjourned without action on his motion Dismissed from the Royal Navy.

London, May 6.—Sub-Lieutenant Coyte, of the Royal navy, arrested early last month in Cork on suspicion of being the author of the hoax about the pirate ship off Fastnet Light, Ireland, and alongside of its capture on the 16th of January last, has been convicted of the offence and dismissed from service. This was the story that sent the gunboat Coshaw to sea on a fruitless chase. Sub-Lieutenant Coyte was serving on board the Goshaw at the time.

Sugar from Corn Stalks.

During the past few months there ha been made at the Department of Agriculture, from corn stalks and sorghum, several hundred pounds of sugar, which, in quality, will compare favorably with the best muscovados of Louisiana and Cuba. These samples of sugars have been examined by hundreds of visitors, and have aroused a very great interest in the method of their production; for none seeing the amount upon exhibition can doubt but that a process, which has resulted in the production of these specimens, will suffice to produce thousands

Nor is this general interest remarkable, when we consider that the aggregate production of all the gold and silver of our Western mines, since the date of the discovery of gold in Califor-nia, has barely sufficed to furnish the gold and silver which during the past thirty years has been sent out of the country in payment for foreign sugars.

Indeed at the present time our annual importation of sugar approximates ninety millions of dollars.

This sugar from corn stalks was made from the stalks some four weeks after the ears had been plucked and sold as green corn in our markets, so that in reality, it is a product from that which practically is refuse material.

I have been recently informed by the farmer who furnished these stalks, that there are to-day in the fields about Washington from 500 to 1,000 acres of such stalks, which have not been used for any purpose; and it is probably true that full 90 per cent. of our corn stalks throughout the country are annually Since then the ears may be utilized as food for canning or drying, as is now done upon a targe scale, in certain sections, or for feeding and fattening stock. at a period when perhaps their nutri-tive value is nearly if not quite equal to that which they possess in the grain; and since the staiks may then be util-ized as a source of sugar, there certainly seems a prospect of a new and profitable

Stephenson in his book now almost out of print, on "The Mineralogy and Geology of Georgia." It extends for many miles. A few splendid diamonds were found there years ago by gold-washers, who were ingnorant of what they found. Some of these were cut in England and set in jewelry, but most of them were lost. They were of weight from two to six carats, and three are remembered which were of large size. One of these was broken up by the miners to learn the cause of its lustre. Another was used for years by the boys in playing marbles. By far the largest one was lost by a Dr. Loyd who was employed employed in raising gravel, he picked up a stone, "which was bright and shiny only on one side, the other side being covered with a crust of brown stuff. It was about the size of a guinea egg.' He laid it out on a bank under a gum tree, to show it that night to his wife and children as the largest of the pretty stones which had been found. But he forgot all about it. Twelve years later he learned from experts who took his description of the stone that his "guinea egg" was a diamond, which, if pure, The House Committee on Ways and must have been worth about twenty-

> TWO HISTORIC DIAMONDS. The Koh-i-noor and the Mogul, are world. The first, as is well known, belongs to Queen Victoria, by the con-quest of Punjab in India, who to gratify a caprice of her own, has quite destroyed its historic value. It was found four thousand eight hundred and seven-ty-two years ago (this date is amply verified,) and when cut by Indian lap daries, weighed only one hundred eighty-six and a half carats. If hon-estly cut, it would have been worth thirty million dollars. But by taking off slabs from the facets of a hundred and thirty carats they reduced it to a value of three million. Afterwards the Queen, not being satisfied with the Indian cut of it, had the stone re-cut by Amsterdam jewelers, who reduced it to one hundred and ten and a half carats, and of course obliterated its historic shape. She still values it at three half its weight by cutting. This depends upon its form of crystilization and its free om from flaws which are common. The "Mogul" diamond, the largest ever found, weighed 787 carats. It was cut down by dishonest worknen to weigh only 280 carats, and the stolen slabs cut off were worth far more han the stone. The true worth of the stone, by the rules of trade, was $93,-000,000, but it was thus reduced to $4-

VIOLATIONS OF LAW UNDER THE SANCTION OF THE GOVERNMEN.

A Prompt, Vigorous and Rigorous Investigation Should be Made by Congress.

correspondence of the News. WASHINGTON, May 5th .- It is now elieved that Congress, instead of confining its deliberations to the specific objects for which the present extra session was called, viz: the passage of the appropriation bills, will insensibly drift into the current of regular business. In this event it may be hoped that the work of investigating frauds in the collection and expenditure of the public revenue will be resumed with vigor, prospective magnitude may be fairly appreciated, and with enthusiam not an I we will add rigor. Many culprits only, but with entire justification; with have escaped scrutiny in consequence indeed a confident appeal to the most of the absorbing interest of political searching criticism and rigorous investigation, we may declare with emphasis: controversies; but the time has now arrived when the Committees on expenditures in the several departments should go earnestly to work.

correspondence with the head of the Treasury Department, or with Raum, the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, on the subject; but that those worthies were extremely reluctant to furnish the official facts in the case. The committee called for the Reports made by Revenue Agents to the Bureau with reference to Wheeler's violations of the laws, and the answer was that it was contrary to the regulations of the Treasury Department to suffer official papers to go out of the office. The committee then applied for copies, or for extracts and the answer was given that it would be unjust to Wheeler to condemn him to oversee the miners, and was one day working in the pit in the place of a sick hand. He says that about two hours before sundown, while the service of the Bureau was too restricted to admit of such a diversion from regular duties as would be necessary for copying voluminous docu-ments. At length, however, the committee were granted the privilege of in-specting the reports of the Treasury Agents, when the following main facts were disclosed.

It seems that in August last, ex-Rev enue Agent, Daniel R. Goodloe, of this State, went to Salem, in consequence of repeated complaints made to him, and on hearing the statements of Everett Smith, a former clerk of Wheeler, he required Smith to go before a United States Commissioner and make affidavit to the facts, which affidavit was forwarded to Washington, with an explanatory letter from the Agent. The affi davit charges Wheeler with having been engaged with his Deputy Tuck before they became officers, in the illicit manufacture or sale of whiskey with conniving at similar practices in others, since he became Collector, and with lending the public money to the National Bank at Winston. Other irregularities were charged, and forwarded to the Bureau by Revenue Agent Jacob Wagoner, among them, an ex-Deputy made oath that his pay had been withheld by Wheeler, and that it had been paid to Tuck, although he, the complainant had done the service. He furnishes the official correspondence of Wheeler's office, in proof of the allega-tion, showing that he was the recognized Deputy; and that his remova subsequently made, was made to take effect six weeks prior to its date.

is not worth half that sum.

A rough diamond generally looses one Collectors in the examination of Collector's accounts, visited Salem, per-haps in his customary rounds—or he may have been specially sent to make the examination. His report to the Bureau was very damaging to Wheeler. Raum, the Commissioner sent him back with instructions to make a more thorough examination. He according y returned and made out from Whee 's books a statement of the amount collected and the amounts forwarded to the public Depository at Richmond. every day, from the beginning of Wheeler's term of office to the day of the examination. He had then been in the officethirteen months; and the re-port of Hale showed that Wheeler had abitually violated the law, and thereby incurred its penalties, almost every day from the beginning of his official areer. In order to understand the case it is necessary to premise that the law pre-scribes certain limits within which the commissioner of Internal Revenue is authorized to make rules and regula tions for the collection and transmission of the revenue to the Treasury Depart-ment, or to certain National Banks, which are designated as public deposi-tories. These regulations and instructions require that nothing but legal tenders or National Bank bills shall be taken in payment of taxes. If a draft is sent by a manufacturer of whiskey or tobacco, or other tax-payers, the Collec-tor must ascertain that it will be cashed, and must have it cashed by the payee before sending the stamps. Wheeler has habitually violated this law, and taken drafts on the little Winston Bank for stamps, which the Bank has not cashed on demand—or the drafts have not been payable on sight, and yet have been received and the stamps furnish-

The instructions imperatively require that the sums collected shall be remitted daily to the public Depository if they amount to $1,000. Wheeler's collections average about twice that sum daily; and yet, in defiance of the law, and of the instructions, he from the beginning of his official career to the date of Hale's examination, kept on hand, in the Winston Bank, sums rang-ing from $2,000 to $20,000 dollars. Du-ring the month of July last, the average amcu at of public money kept by Wheeler in the Winston Bank exceeded $16,000 daily.

Such are some of the proven and indisputable facts in Wheeler's case; and yet Raum sticks to him like a brother. and will not listen to the suggestion of is removal, even much less of his punishment for violations of law. Raum thus makes himself a consciously guil-ty accessory to Wheeler's flagrant mal-feasance. But the secret lies just here: that Wheeler has made friends of the carpet baggers, and the carpet baggers,

CANADIAN AND NEW YORK CAPI-

TALISTS TO OPPOSE VANDER-

BILT.

A Company Organized, and the Mon-

Bond From New York to Cali-

New York, May 5th.—A project has been started by a number of capitalists with the view of establishing a new di-rect route between New York and California. It is understood the movement has been rendered necessary in consequence of the difficulties experienced by the projectors—the majority of whom are large shippers of freight—in obtaining prompt transportation from the existing lines. The new organization embraces a number of rich and influential Canadian capitalists, and several of the leading railroad men of this city.

It is proposed to build a new road from Hoboken to Buffalo. It will be constructed along the line of the Hud-constructed along the line of the Hud-son on the west side of the river. They have secured, or will secure, by the foreclosure of mortgages, the ground that was formerly held by a railroad company on the west side of the Hud-son, but which company failed in 1873 for non-payment of interest on its coupons. Several attempts have been made to revive the defunct concern, but without success.

The newly organized company, which is composed of well known capitalists, including Jay Gould, Russell Sage and several others, propose to begin building operations at an early date. They will use the bridge to be built across the Hudson at Poughkeepsie, and run down on the east side to New York.

They propose to erect a grand depot on the west side of the Hudson for cattle-yards, etc. The line will take in all the large cities between New York and Buffalo, except Rochester. It will have a branch connection with the Grand Trunk Railway of Canada, and will connect at Detroit with the Wabash and Toledo line, and so on with other roads, direct to California. The Company will thus have one direct route from New York to San Francisco.

It is also understood that the stated eapital of the new concern will be $35,-000,000. The road will be built in fifty sections, each under a separate and dis-tinet contract, and work will be pushed forward so as to complete the necessary new lines and all the arrangements with other roads in order to have the whole open for traffic at an early date. The reason given for the new project is, that the Canadian and other roads have suf-fered materially in consequence of the policy pursued by W. H. Vanderbilt on the various lines under his control, and the difficulty they have met with in transporting their freight. They claim that they cannot get through freight to either New York or Boston by Vander-bilt's roads, and hence have determined on constructing a line which shall relieve them from this exclusive and oppressive policy.

In an interview with Gen. G. W.

Wingate last evening, he says: "I cannot give any information about the new road. Mr. Dorsheimer has under consideration some plan about some railroad, but I suppose the project was one of profound secrecy, and it is a source of wonder to me how people gain so much knowledge in anticipation of its publicity."

He cut short the interview by referring to Mr. Dorsheimer, who, however, could not be found.

Did you not ride all the way in a ham-

The reporter declined to be pumped and after a few minutes more of con-versation the man said he had no object versation the man said he had no objection to giving the whole matter to the public. "You see," he said, "about three weeks ago I started from New Haven to go to San Francisco in a hammock. I made a bet that I could go to San Francisco inside of three weeks without riding in any car or convey-ance on wheels. The parties with whom I laid the wager imagined that I had some newfangled balloon with which I intended to make the trip and they took the wager. It was for $10,000, and the money is now deposited in the New Haven Savings Bank. Well, when I told them that I did not intend to ride in a car but under one, they laughed and said they would double the bet."

Did you double the bet? I was willing to, but could not get a backer. I did not have the money myself and I did not wish the affair to become too public, so the bet was left as it was originally made. You see they imagined that I was going to ride on a brake-beam with the tramps. But I had another plan. I rigged up a contrivance which I could sling under the car between the rods which run lengthwise below the car on each side. hammock ran crosswise and also had stays to keep it from swinging. Here my hammock to the bars and then fas-ten the stays. Next I spread an oilskin in the hammock and then a blanket. I then get in and pull another blanket over me. I wear a thick veil as a protection against the dust. Over the top blanket is another oilskin which sheds the dust that is easily cleaned. Under the car and above the hammack are rods connecting with the brakes. On these I hang my provisions in canvas bags. I took quite a supply of canned meats, ham, chicken, and liquor from New Haven, and replenished them when they ran out. When there was no dust I have frequently eaten my dinner as we sped on at the rate of thirty miles an hour. I also had an arrangement by which, with a tackle and pulley, I could pull myself and hammock up against the bottom of the car out of sight when we stopped at stations. I was in mortal agony at such times, fearing that I would be discovered. Twice the conductor spotted me, but my account of myself and something else fixed things, I sometimes had bad company in the shape of tramps who rode on the brake

When did you leave New Haven? I left on March 4th, and reached San Francisco on Saturday of last week; so you see I had some little time to spare. I came up from Sacramento under the train. I had won my bet on reaching San Francisco. In fact, the agreement was that I won on reaching Oakland Point, which was the terminus of the railroad. Was there no public announcement made of your departure?

No; I wished no publicity because was afraid people might be watching for me and hinder my progrees. How came you to come up under th train from Sacramento?

HAMMOCK. The Story of a Man who Rode Acros the Continent Under a Sleeping Car.

THREE THOUSAND MILES IN

Virginia (Nevada) Chronicle, March 29, Yesterday afternoon our reporter noticed a man sitting on a lumber pile near the Con. Virginia works basking in the sun. He was greasy and dirty to the last degree, and neither a razor nor a pair of shears had touched him for at least a year. It was easy to see that he was a tramp, and had just arrived in the country. The reporter determined to interview him and began by asking:

"When did you get in ?" About an hour ago.

How? Came up on the wood train.

Pay your fare? No, of course not. I rode a little way ehind a wood pile on a flat-car and they kicked me off and I got on again just as they started. Got on a few cars further down. At the next place they stopped I was booted again, and then I got on a brake-beam and came up. The brake-beam racket is the best thing yet. You can ride all over the United States on a brake-beam and not pay a cent. I've rode thousands of miles on brake-beams and I've got so I sorter like it. I've slept on a brake-beam all night, but some men fall off and get run over. That's the reason they find men here and there smashed up on the track. A cove came to Reno with me from Truckee yesterday that had the boss racket. He had a regular hammock slung under the sleeping car and mock slung under the sleeping car and rode along as easy as you please. He said he was coming up this morning to see Virginia City and he hails from New Haven. He's the queerest cove you ever saw and I guess he rides just for fun, because he has plenty of cash and could pay his way if he wanted to. Guess he's got some kind of a bet up.

Guess he's got some kind of a bet up.

This was all the tramp knew about the matter, and this morning the reporter watched the arrivals. A few minutes after the lightning train came in a man registered his name as "Charles H. Pendleton, New Haven," at the International Hotel, and was assigned room 125. The reporter presumed that this was the man he was after, and called at once at his room.

Mr. Pendleton is a short, thick-set little man, with red hair, and did not show much of the fatigues of travel. The reporter announced his business with the remark: "I am a newspaper man and came to interview you about your trip across the continent. Your name is Pendle-ton, I believe?"

Yes, that is my name, but I have nothing to communicate about my mock under a sleeper?

Who the devil told you that?

Pendleton took from a corner th hammock in which he had made this curious trip across the continent. It was a close net of strong twine and jus a little longer than the width of the car. The stays were long ropes with hooks at the end. The hammock was also supplied with hooks and gauged to fit a Puliman palace car. Pendleton ex-plained the modus operandi of his invention: Just before the train starts I hook Did you come into Reno with a long er and so I got out and slung my hamsoundly, but the sharp curves of the Sierra mountains were very rough and to sleep was impossible."

Would you take the same trip back again for the same money?

If I needed the money badly I would, but I can't say that I would care to start back again now for ten thousand. There was much anxiety and annoyance for me, and it would take a volume to tell all the incidents of the trip. Have you any witnesses to vouch for your having won the bet?

My word of honor is quite sufficient for the parties who made the bet.
Who were they?
Allen Brewster, of Boston, was one of the men, and John L. Vearsey, of New Horen, and John L. Heven, another. There were three others, but they do not care to be known in the matter.Mr. Pendleton here folded up his hammock and asked to be allowed to have a little rest. tended more to collect others' opinions than to give our own crude ideas. We believe it will scarcely be disputed that the female sex is more fond of this harmless amusement than their sterner brethren.

Men scorn to kiss among themselves And scarce will kiss a brother; Women want to kiss so bad,

They smack and kiss each other! Nor is this entirely out of nature. Nor is this entirely out of nature. Were we inclined to be a kissist—which by our snowy beard is impossible—we think, nay, we feel positive, that we should prefer a youthful maiden to receive our salute. The insinuation that some young ladies are fond of mouths thatched with a hideous mustache is doubtless, contemptible should recover the state of the st doubtless a contemptible slander. Their own smooth cheeks and rosy mouths are far preferable, and so they must feel. Sidney Smith says: "There is much virtue in a kiss when well de-livered. We have had the memory of ne we received in our youth, which has lasted us forty years, and we be-lieve it will be one of the last things we think of when we die."

This is no world, as Hotspur said, For kissing lips and mammets made. Yet how fond was Shakespeare of this You cannot read a single play of the great master without inding a world of talk about lips and kisses. There are an infinity of examples:

"He kissed—the last of many doubled kisses."
"We'll e'en but kiss Octavia, and we'll follow."

"There is gold, and here
My bluest veins to kiss; a hand that kings
Have lipp'd, and trembled kissing."

"Give me a kiss-e'en this repays me."
"I shall return once more to kiss these lips."

"This is a soldier's kiss." "Commend unto his lips thy favoring kiss it my warrior."

"Come, then, and take the last warmth of my lips..'
All this, and more, in one play-and that a very deep tragedy. It is said that the true origin of this gracious interchange of soul comes from the far East, and that it is symbolic of the sun's rays greeting the earth: "Kiss sunbeams, kiss The dear old face of earth, And bring the sap to the bursting bud, And bring he flower to birth!

Kiss, kiss, and kiss!" A FEW NOTES.

No additional troops will be sent to the Indian Territory to protect the lands there from squatters and interlopers, the troops already there being sufficient to afford the necessary protection. They are stationed at Camp Reno, Fort Supply and Fort Sill. To prevent invasion by squatters these troops will be stationed along the Missouri and Kansas borders of the territory, from which directions the invaders come. There are about 500 troops in the torritory. The Treasury department is in receipt of information that the Norwegian government has issued a regulation prohibiting the importation into that country from the United States of live cattle, sheep and goats. This action was taken on account of the reports of pleuro-pneumonia and other disease existing among American cattle. An astonishing number of emigrants from Canada to Manitoba have passed through Chicago in the last few weeks. They are accompanied by their wives and children, their sisters, their cousins and their aunts, their horses, cows, pigs and chickens, and all their household belongings, and are evidently going to stay. There is a possibility that the new Philadelphia postoffice building will be investigated. The House Committee on Expenditures on the Public Buildings have agreed to make an examination of the general method pursued in erecting public buildings, and have passed resolutions calling upon Secre-retary Sherman for information.

The Stanley-Hazen Quarrel is disosed of so far as the court-martial of which Gen. Hancock is president is concerned; The hearing of evidence was closed and the court is considering their verdict. The result will not be known until after the President has reviewed the proceedings. A nine-mile "go-as-you-please" race took place in New York Saturday, the 3d inst., from Fifty-ninth street and Fifth ave to Jerome Park gate, between John Hunter, Jr., and Denis Solomon, employers of stockbrokers. Hunter won by half mile in 1h. 10. It is said $10,000 changed hands on the result.

EXCURSIONISTS ON THEIR WAY TO THE CITY BY THE JAMES.

Grand Success--- Raleigh Well Represented-Notes by

Special Correspondence of the News. WELDON, May 6 .- Contrary to the expectation of some persons the number of excursionists from our city was large considering the season, and the substantial business firms were well represented. Among those who we e of the party are Messrs. W. C. Stronach, of the firm of W. C. & A. B. Stronich, A. C. Sanders, M. Grausman, G. Heller, G. E. Leach, of Leach Bros., D. B. Avera, of Parker & Avera, J. W. Purefoy and J. A. Kelley, of Kelley, Purefoy & Brewer, Claude B. Barbee, of Rand & Barbee Bros., J. A. Gattis, F. B. Hill, J. D. Joyner, George Goldman, Ed. H. Lee, P. Psalms, ii.: 12, and Valediction, Ruth, ii.: 9. Kissing is a very dangerous subject for an old bachelor to write upon inasmuch as the freedom of a fair maiden's lips is often the provocation to the commission of matrimony. But, lest the reader be disappointed that we have no personal recollections to unfold, and therefore disinclined to read this article, we may as well remark that it is inwelling. ous Richmond friend, was the good genius of the party, while the train was in charge of Capt. Drummond, the popular conductor.

We made a good run, picking up merchants at every station, all of wnom well represented the business interest. Among the merchants outside of Ra-leigh were J. M. & J. L. Pugh, of Morrisville; O. B. Fonshee, of Durham; S. H. Buchanan, of Jonesboro; J. B. Dunn and D. Allen, of Wake Forest. At Franklinton we took on the fol-lowing: W. H. Joyner, J. G. Stanton, J.G. Vaughan, M. Dorsey, W. A. Bob-bitt and Charles Landis. The following Louisburg merchants were also added: J. A. Thomas and C. T. Terrell, and T.W. Ford, of the Franklin Times.

At Kittrell's the following embarked: C. W. Rauey, P. B. Key, G. G. Stanton, E. W. Ellis. At Henderson there were a number of accessions to the crowd. Among these were J. D. Cooper, E. G. Davis, R. Perry and T. C. Jones, of Hender-son, and Mr. C. H. Harper, of the Border Review. This place shows the hand of improvement, and is one of the livest places in the State. The market for topacco is excelient, is well supplied, and is indeed a business revival, and prosperity has marked the place for its own.
At this point some of the representative merchants of Oxford came aboard.
These were D. A. Hunt, C. A. Taylor,
J. W. Hunt, S. S. Haithcock, R. L.
Hunt, R. J. Mitchell and Capt. Baldy

At Middleburg we picked up C. B. Church.

Ridgeway added a pair of her mer-chants to our number. These were W. R. Jones and Walter Allen. At Warrenton station there were several accessions to the party, among them Walter Parker, J. R. Johnson, Sr., J. R. Johnson, Jr., A. M. Miles and Solomon Williams.

Messrs. W. Y. Egerton, Walter P. Rodwell and W. G. Coleman got on at Macon.

The flourishing little village of Littleton was next reached. A number of new stores are going up rapidly, and the place seems prosperous. Near it are great peach orchards, and many new trees have just been set out. It is reported that the crop is nearly all killed by the frosts in April. At this station two merchants got aboard, B. R. Browning and J. E. McCraw. And yet two more were added to us at Gaston,

W. P. Clemons and James House. This closed our list of participants in the excursion, so far as the Raleigh and Gaston Railroad is concerned. The to-tal number from Raleigh to Weldon was 136, and it is due them to say that they may well be termed representa-tive merchants.

At Weldon the train on the Wilmington and Weldon Railroad brought 109 excursionists. We all left at 2 p. m., on a special, ten cars, and will reach Richmond at 6:30.

What May Come of It. New York Star.

The Democratic party holds firmly to the opinion that the use of Federal troops at the polls is an unconstitutional assumption of power.
It holds also that President Hayes is perfectly well aware of this, and that he signed the veto of the Army Appreprition bill not because of any doubt as to the propriety and legality of the prothe propriety and legality of the proposed repeal, but out of deference to the wishes of his party.

Both houses of Congress in 1881 will be Democratic, and if at the preceding National election the President shall see fit to use the power which he claims the right to exercise, the important everyties will arise we their Congress. question will arise whether Congress ought to count the votes cast for President and Vice-President in the State or States where there has been such intervention of the Federal military.

Would it be a valid election if, for instance, United States troops, acting un-ter orders from the Washington authorities, were to be stationed at the polls in this city upon the pretense of keep-ing the peace, but in reality to terroize Democratic voters and prevent them from exercising their rights as citizens? The question would suggest itself with peculiar force if the result of such election were a reduced Democratic majority here sufficient to insure the success of the Republican Electoral ticket in the State. Inasmuch as the view taken by Mr. Hayes and his party friends is unconstitutional in principal, it follows that it should be unconstitutional in practice, and a Democratic Congress could, with perfect consistency, refuse to count the vote of the State of New York on the ground that the election had been carried by the employment of unlawful

Those who regard New York as a doubtful State would do well to in-clude the contingency to which we refer as a factor in the problem.

It often happens that the inventions of evil minds return to plague their inventors, and since the stalwarts have driven the President to set up the ob-Graves had been for a long time closely identified with the educational interests of the State. His death is a great loss to our community. He was a man of extensive learning and great purity of character. No one ever had more entirely the confidence and esteem of our people.

UNLESS Collector Wheeler has been personally benefitted by making the Winston bank a depository of Government funds he has been guility of only a technical violation of the law, according to our correspondent's showing. If the government has sustained no loss and is amply secured against loss, where is the harm done. The Winston bank and its patrons are benefitted while the government does not suffer. The other charges are serious and should be thoroughly investigated by Congress. Gen. Scales is looking after the matter we understand, and that affords the assurance that it will be probed to the bottom. The State has long been scandalized by the charges made and reiterated against Collector Wheeler. If Commissioner Raum is the corrupt scoundrel and accessory of Wheeler as charged by Republican officials he is a disgrace to the government and ought to be removed from office. Nothing short of a Congressional committee will ever get at the bottom of the rascality. Let the investigation go on.

A MISTAKE THAT OUGHT TO BE CORRECTED.

The Washington correspondent of the Richmond Dispatch, generally correct and clever, sometime ago put a speech in Martin's mouth that our prima facie Congressman never made, The Richmond paper said that Martin said, during the debate in the House on the Legislative bill; that he was a Confederate soldier and had no apology to make for it. Our sense of justice to Mr. Martin, his political associates in Weshington and to those in the 1st District who voted for him, constrains us, even at this late day, to correct the error. Those who know the joyous and hilarious Martin doubtless enjoyed the ludicrous mistake. The Albemarle Enquirer, E. City Economist and other Democratic journals, distinguished for their sense of fair play, copied the dispatch unwittingly. Of course the proper amende will be made. Martin's bi ographer says that he never served a day in the Confederate army, and the Record of the 46th Congress proves that he has not opened his mouth in that body except to voteagainst Democratic legislation in the interest of a free ballot. The language attributed to Martin was used by Russell, of the Third

THE NEW ARMY BILL.

The Democratic caucus, Saturday, agreed upon "a bill to prevent the use of the army at elections." It was introduced on Monday by Greenbacker Ladd, of Maine, and was referred to the Judiciary committee.

It has a short preamble, which states concisely the necessity for the enactment of a law based upon the principle that no troops shall be quartered within a certain distance of any place where held. The bill provides that the army shall not be stationed in any city, town, village or place on the day when an election is held, unless the presence of troops is necessary to enforce the mandates of the United States court. It provides also for the repeal of all laws or parts of laws which authorize the use of troops at the polls "to preserve the peace," unless in strict compliance with that article of the Constitution which authorizes the President to send troops nto a state to suppress insurrection at the governor when the legislature is not in session.

The bill is in conformity with the letter and spirit of the Constitution. It limits the Executive to the exercise of the powers alone conferred upon him by the Constitution. As now drawn it cuts off the special pleading so adroitly introduced in the President's message, vetoing the other bill. What pretext will now be offered remains to he seen, The veto was the result of coercion by the Republican party in Congress. It is reasonable to suppose that the same wicked influence will result again in the same obstructive policy. Let the new bill go to the President without delay and without discussion. THE PRESIDENTIAL OUTLOOK. "Tilden and another versus Grant & Co." is apparently the title of the mighty of all poets, in whose epic the panorama controversy which will be left to the of mediaval life, of feudalism at its great panel of the American people to decide in the fall of 1880, unless death or a hopeless disability should seize upon one of the parties named. It is probable that the words of the New York Times, after announcing the candidacy of General Grant as already an accomplished fact, might honestly be echoed by a great majority of the members of both parties in regard to their prospective candidates; "he is neither our first, nor even our second choice, but-The circumstances which will contro the nomination of both these men are perhaps, the most peculiar which have ever surrounded opposing candidates for the presidency. Neither of them can be considered men of great personal magnetism. The individual following of either is not large. The one was an obscure lawyer until far past the meridian of life and the other an unnoticed soldier, a poor farmer and an unsuccessful tradesman until his fortieth year. The one has achieved remarkable success at the bar and in business; the other even greater success in the field. The one tracked the Tweed ring to its lair and bound it with knotted cords; the other put his hand on the throat of the Confederacy and held his grip until it expired. Both have failed in the lives-Tilden in the Presidential campaign; Grant in that of the Wilderness. The contrast and paralellism which marks their lives, extends also to their personal characteristics. Both are cool self-contained impassive men. The one is a master of lego-political lore, keen, alert and subtle. The other is a marvellous incarnation of Fabian patience, more than Catonian singleness of purpose and an inflexible stubbornness which it would be hard to paralel.

supreme struggle of their past seorn of the obstacles which he does not foresee. The one is an organizer of forces, a creator of causes, a moulder of consequent events; the other is a director of power, a wielder of forces shaped to his hand, an adapter of exis tent means to a desired end. The one is a strategetic philosopher; the other stolid soldier. Both are men of few words. The one is a matchless formulator of political principles; the other a promulgator of potent phrases. One of Tilden's letters is a volume in a page; one of Grant's aphorisms is an armed host. One of Tilden's sentences is an intellectual Gibraltar behind which his followers may fight; one of Grant's sententious phrases, is a sword of fire in the hands of his votaries. The one stills a tempest with a letter; the other drops "unconditional surrender" into the scales of a doubtful conflict. Both are silent men-as to themselves. No candidate was ever so intangible to his supporters as Tilden; no general as inscrutable to his soldiers as Grant. The one is shrouded from the vulgar ken in his plans; the other in his purposes. In victory or defeat both stand alone. Tilden, stricken, utters no cry; Grant, victorious, utters no shout. No rabble bursts hilariously into the seclusion of Gramercy Park, or intrudes itself upon the meditations of the "Silent Smoker." The one binds his followers by belief in his power; the other by by confidence in his success. The one seems unable to win the people's love; the other regardless of it. The one may be sneered at; the other is hated. The one is sometimes "Sammy Tilden;" the other is always "Grant .. " Both occupy also the same position in regard to their respective parties, but from entirely different reasons. They are neither the first ner the second choice of the individuals composing those parties, but collectively their only hope. No man, it is claimed, can compete with Grant but Tilden and none but Grant can stand against Tilden, so long as the other is a possible contingency. Should either be removed a champion of equal or greater power, perhaps, might be supplied, but while both live, no man may take up the other's gage.

Tilden is strong because his followers pelieve that he lost through fraud; Grantbecause his believe, he will always win through luck. The moral strength of Tilden is his antecedent defeat; of Grant, his career of unprecedented triumph. Whether sympathy with the un- the Belgian and mousquetaire, kids merited wrong of unparalelled fraud or the prestige of uninterrupted far up the arm as a glove with four or success, is the stronger motive in the six buttons. minds of the American people is the great moral question to be decided by the struggle which impends.

Of Democrats, Thurman, Bayard, Hendricks, or any one of a score or more, would, no doubt, in the opinion of the party make as good, perhaps a better president. Of Republicans, Conkling, Blaine, Washburne, Evarts, or any one of a host of others might eclipse Grant in the minds of that party, as a fit occupant of the White House of the ancient statute which provides Perhaps, in the estimation of the whole people, could party lines be abolished, Davis, of Illinois, would be deemed the any general or special election is being fittest man to fill the presidential chair. But none of these can bear, vicariously, the sting of Tilden's fraudulent defeat or clothe themselves with the burnished armor of Grant's victorious career. Alike and yet unlike the champions are matched by the infallible criterion of individual power and mutual fitness, o grapple with each other. Both are magnificent examples of our peculiarly Anglo-Saxon idea of "pluck." Both are leaders under whom the opposing hosts will rally, for a struggle which he request of the state legislature, or of will be memorable in the nation's annals. Of either might the other say as the fallen archangel to his sometime

FREDERIC HARRISON has old fashoned notions of what books people ought to read. In his recent lecture on the choice of books, printed in the current Fortnightly Review, he remarks hat it is true psychological problem, this nausea which idle culture seems to produce for all that is manly and pure in heroic poetry." Walter Scott's hips. prose-Scott, whom he calls "the latest, perhaps, in the series of the world wide and immortal poets of the whole human race"-is pronounced by the last discovery of modern culture to be commonplace. Dante, "the most profound, the most meditative, the most prophetic best, and Christianity at its best, stands as in a microcosm, transfigured, judged and measured," in an age of steam it seems almost idle to speak of. Milton's Paradise Lost, with all its mighty music and its idyllic pictures of human nature, is a serious and ungrateful task. There are magazine articles abounding in ceaseless explanations, in more or less readable prose, of what John Milton meant or did not mean, of what he saw or did not see-indeed, we read "a perfect library about Paradise Lost, but the Paradise Lost itself we do not read." Homer is always fresh and rich, but "a generation which will listen to 'Pinafore' for three hundred nights, and will read M. Zola's seventeenth romance can no more read Homer than it could read a cuneiform inscription." People will crowd to see a few pots which, perhaps, come from Troy, but "to Homer and the primeval type of heroic man, in his beauty and his simpleness and foyousness, the cultured generation is really dead, as completely as some spoiled beauty of the ball room is dead to the bloom of the heather or the way-

ing of the daffodils in a glade." minority of Congress, or by the ma THE Washington Capital exhausts the whole subject of the political deadlock in Congress in these pungent comments: "One thing at least is certain: There is no further market for Great Columbian Oratory. The case has already been pettifogged nearly to death, and the experience of the past ought to convince Democrats that in a game of police court petifoggery the Radicals can beat them out of sight.

HON. R. F. ARMFIELD introduced an important bill in the House Monday. It provides that hereafter no prosecution shall be instituted or maintained against any person for any offence against the Internal Revenue laws of the United States, unless upon a bill of indictment found by a grand jury. The effect of this legislation, and its importance should command speedy enactment, it prevents the easy and 'much abused practice of prosecutions in the Federal court by information."

THE Illinois Legislature has some entertaining features that in their way are as good as anything that occurred in our own Legislature last winter. While a little calm discussion was in progress over a bill at Springfield the other day, one member arose and said: This measure is a steal, and you are ne of the thieves." The member alluded to was staggered for a moment, but his high order of statesmanship soon came to his rescue, and he said: "You are an infamous liar—an infamous red-headed liar, and I hold myself personally responsible for what I say." Never mind that," exclaimed the other honorable gentleman, "but we'll kill your bill all the same, and kill your blackmailing--capital--stock scheme when it comes up, too."

It is an excellent corrective of Indigestion I have used it with prompt beneficial results Rev Dr. Mangum, Prof Univ. of N.C.

Rev. Drs Jeter, Broaddus, Dick'nson, (Bap)
It is endorsed by the direct personal testimony of men of national fame and strictness of speech. It is not too much to say that no medicine ever had such support in its favor as a specific. The word of any one of the eminent divines who underwrite this antido eat of dyspepsia has deserved weight. Their united witness joined with the experimental use and ap roval of the preparation by well-known; hysicians, removes all doubt. It is beyond question, a wonderful therapentical agent—Eoit rs deligious Heraid, Va.
Chaptain Randolph Miscon College, Va.
Many cases of Dysp-psia within my knowledge have been cured by it. Cramps, Colics, Headaches and all sor s of pais from indicestion yield promptly to it. The cures of this sort ar Innum-rable.

Rev. R. L. Dabney, L. L. tis highly esteemed here by the regular Medical Faculty and the people. It is excellent for Inalges ion and Flatulant Colle, sedative, soporific, tonic, slightly ape eat, without nausea.

Rev. B. F. Woodward, P. E., Na. Cont, About welve years I suffered from Dyspepsia. Folding in with this remedy, I gave it a lai trial. After its use I countert any thing with impunity. I am sure I am indebted to this meditine for what of health a diphy ic I comfort I have had for the last sixteen years. I have known many since to be relieved by its use.

LIVER PILLS

FOR THE CURE OF.

Hepatitis, or Liver Complaint.

DYSPAPSIA AND SICK HEADACHE

Cymptoms of a Diseased Liver. DAIN in the right side, under the edge of the ribs, increases on presare; sometimes the pain is in the left side; the patient is rarely able to lie on the left side; sometimes the pain is felt under the shoulder blade, and it frequently extends to the top of the shoulder, and is sometimes mistaken for rheumatism in the arm. The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness; the bowels in general are costive, sometimes alternative with lax; the head is troubled with pain, accompanied with a dull, heavy sensation in the back part. There is generally a considerable loss o' memory, accompanied with a painful sensation of having left undone something which ought to have been done. A slight, dry cough is sometimes an attendant. The patient complains of weariness and debility; he is easily startled, his feet are cold or burning, and he complains of a prickly sensation of the skin; his spirits are low; and although he is satisfied that exercise would be beneficial to him, yet he can scarcely summon up fortitude enough to try it, In fact, he distrusts every remedy. Several of the above symptoms attend the disease, Lut cases have occurred where few of them existed, yet examination of the body, after death, has

LOCAL BRIEFS.

-The County Commissioners met at the courthouse yesterday and transacted the usual routine business. They meet again in the courthouse morning.

-Ira Olive, J. G. Olive and A. C Olive, arrested by Deputy Marshal, W. H. Martin, in Wake county, charged with illicit distilling, bound to court by U. S. Commissioner, T. R. Purnell, failed to give bond and were jailed.

There will be a festival at the colored Graded school to-night. The The object is to raise means to pay off an indebtedness incurred for fuel and other necessaries. The school deserves the liberal patronage of the colored people which we bespeak for it.

The Old Reliable.

Mr. A Creech, the old reliable dry goods merchant of this city, has an at-tractive advertisement in to-day's News. His views on the business situation are much attention. Mr. Creech is a leading citizen, and is proprietor of the oldest dry goods business in Raleigh. His extensive trade, and wide reputation are the result of energy, brains and in-tegrity, all of which he is liberally endowed with.

Notice to Taxpayers.

R. W. Best, Assessor, and C. B. Root, Esq., Assistant Assessor, for Raleigh Township, give notice that they will sit at the Grand Jury room, in the County Court-house, during the twenty days next after the first day of June, 1879, at which place and on which days all taxpayers in this Township are required o return to the Assessor for taxation for the year 1879 all the real estate and personal property which each tax-payer shall own on the first day of June, under the pains and penalties imposed by County Commissioners.

The board made their quarterly visit to the poor-house yesterday. Considerable business was transacted. Everything was found in good order; several new buildings are going up. The board meet in the court room this forenoon upon their return from a visit to the Graded schools. The judges of the school tax election in the first, fourth and fifth wards having failed to certify to the correctness of the poll-books, as they are directed by law, are requested to call at the office of the Register of Deeds and perform this duty.

Odd Fellows Celebration.

Ex-Governor W. A. Newell, of New Jersey, who is to deliver an address before the Odd Fellows of this city to morrow evening, is expected to arrive by the Northern train to-night. A large turnout of the Fraternity is anticipated upon the occasion of Gov. Newell's address. They are determined to give the distinguished visitor a welcome. We mention again that the exercises at Tucker Hall wil be free, and the public are invited to attend. We will publish the programme in our issue of to-morrow.

Church Consecration at Kittrells.

Rt. Rev. Theodore B. Lyman, Assis tant Bishop of North Carolina, Jno. E. C. Smedes, Rev. E. R. Rich, of the Church of the Good Shepherd, and Rev. Bennett Smedes, went down to Kittrells yesterday, to assist in the consecration of St. James Episcopal church The Rector of this church is Rev. T Jervis Edwards. Bishop Lyman preach ed the consecration sermon. A very large number of persons were present to witness the interesting services. The sermon was delivered in the clear and forcible style for which the Bishop is noted.

Glen Alpine Springs.

This delightful health-giving resort, in Western North Carolina, is now set in thorough order for the summer season. From Glen Alpine station on the W. N. C. R. R., a splendid road, well graded, leads to the Springs.

The country all around, in every direction, abounds in picturesque scenery. The proprietors have secured the professional services of Dr. John Hey Williams, late of the Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, as resident physician. The hotel will accommodate 250 per sons comfortably, and the table is spread regularly with the best things the rich mountain country affords. The remedial qualities of the waters are pronounced, and in cases of dispepsia, kidney or liver affections, an effectual specific. The polite and gentlemanly proprietors, Messrs. Walton & Pearson, will spare no effort to make their guests happy, healthy and hearty. From the present prospect, there will be an unusually large attendance at these springs this year.

Bapfizing at Dr. McKee's Mill, Beaver Dam.

On Sunday morning, May 4th, the Rev. J. Maybery, pastor of the colored Baptist Church, assembling at Hall's Chapel, Oberlin, baptized eight new converts in McKee's mill pond, where a large company, both white and colored, assembled to witness the ceremony. The weather being favorable, a crowd of friends from Raleigh and various country places attended. Everything passed off in the most satisfactory manner. The paster commenced the service by reading an appropriate passage of scrip ture, and then announced a hymn which was heartily sung by the vast assembly, after which he addressed the eight candidates, explaining the nature and objects of the sacrament, and giv ing salutary words of advice and cau-tion. The Rite was then administered and the service brought to a close. The church afterwards met in their usual place in Oberlin, when the eight candidates were formally admitted into the fellowship of Christ's Church. The Rev. Mr. Maybery then preached an appropriate sermon from "of whom the world was not worthy," Heb. 11c 38v., after which the Lord's Supper was administered, the Rev. J. Jones assisting. In the evening, at 7 o'clock, the church was crowded, when the Rev. Mr. Maybery again preached. At the close Deacon Rand addressed the church on the duty of Christian liberality, after which a collection was taken up by Deacon N. Collins, the result showing that the Deacon's address had

Franklin Court. LOUISBURG, N. C. May 5—The case set for to-day, viz: State vs. Ned Freeman, Andrew Kittrell, alias Andrew Green, W. H. Fuller, all colored charge—burglary, was submitted on the plea of larceny. The case was disposed of by His Honor as follows: Judg-ment suspended as to Fulier. Ned Freeman, two years, and Andrew Kittrell five years in the State Prison.

The case of Marcellus Dent, charged with the killing of Charles Dickerson and which was set for to-morrow by agreement was tried to-day. The defendant accepting the venire of fifty which were summoned to-day in the burglary case, in which there was submission by consent, for larceny The case was called at 1½ o'clock, by F N. Strudwick, counsel for the State and Messrs. Davis and Cook, and B. F. Bullock, Jr., for the defendant. The following jurors were selected, viz: A J. Green, col., W. B. Timberlake, Jno. W. Andrews, Calvin Mitchell, J. W. Young, W. K. Martin, Jr., Dr. G. M. Cooley, B. P. Clifton, D. F. Murphy, J. R. Mitchenor, J. R. Harris and John Mitchell. The case was not completed on the first day, so it was continued until to-day. The argument and charge was concluded, and the case given to the jury at 3 o'clock, p. m. They returned a verdict of not guilty.

A Ball in the Bowels of the Earth. A ball was given on the night of the 4th by Capt. Matt Canavan at the New York mine, Gold Hill, of which mine he is superintendent. The ball took place at the new station opened at the depth of 1,040 feet below the surface The station is quite as large as an ordinary ball-room, well floored, walled in with substantial timbers, and has quite a lofty ceiling. The station is cool and comfortable, was appropriately decora-ted for the occasion, and was lighted with lamps suspended from the ceiling. The ladies were dressed in calico, and the gentlemen in correspondingly inex-pensive raiment. The furniture was in keeping with the place, and while there was furnished everything necessary to omfort, nothing very extravagant was seen. Never before in the United States
-if anywhere in the world—has there been given a ball at the depth of nearly a quarter of a mile beneath the surface of the earth. There was no troubl about persons slipping into the ball room without tickets. It was a queer way, too, of going to a ball-this stepoing upon a cage instead of into a car-

About Money.

From The National View. Aristotle says: "Money is a meas ure of values, a medium of exchange an invention of man, not a product o nature." "It is a creture of law," he adds, "and may be made of any sub-"It is a creture of law," he stance most convenient for the pur-

Gold is not money, silver is not money, paper is not money; but it can be made of gold, silver, or paper, and when coined (stamped) by authority of government, and issued as a legal ender, it possesses uniform value whatever the material of which it is made.

Cathay coined money from the bark of the mulberry tree. Lycurgus demonetized gold and silver and issued iron oins as the legal money of Sparta. Carthagenia coined money from leath er. So did France, as late as 1360. In 1635 grains of corn, beans and musket balls were current money in Massachusetts. Thomas Barring, of the great banking house of Barring Brothers, of London, says that in 1847 silver, not being a legal tender in England, it was impossible to borrow any sum of money in London on 60,000t. of silver; and that in 1864 not one rupee of silver could be got in Calcutta on 20,000l. of gold, gold not being legal money there at that time. This great London banker is strong authority, and his testimony clearly establishes the fact that gold and silver are no more money than paper until made so by law. We have in this country, at the present time, eight different kinds of money. 1. The gold dollar, supposed to be worth, intrinsically, 100 cents; 2. The Bland silver dollar, worth 97 cents; 3. Two half dollars, silver, worth 88 cents; 4. Twenty five-cent nickle coins, worth 17 cents; 5. Thirty-three and one-third three-cent nickel coins, worth 17 cents; 6. One hundred copper coins, worth 7 cents; 7. The greenback legal tender dollar, worth 0 ents; and, lastly, the silver trade dollar, worth 9s cents.

These, in spite of the difference in the value of the materials of which they are made, rank exactly equal in pur-chasing and debt-paying value, except the trade dollar, which, although it is worth 98 cents as silver bullion, will only pass for 90 cents in trade, because, and solely because it is not a legal tender-is not money in a legal sense; it lacks the fiat of law.

NEW ADAERTISEMENTS.

GOOD MORNING!

NEW GOODS

A. CREECH'S.

CUSTOMERS, THIS ADVERTISEent is for your interest, so read carefully. have received my stock of Spring Goods or 1879, and it affords me pleasure to say to ou that every DEPARTMENT is full and complete, with New Goods, from Coarse to Fine Fairies, bought by myself in person rom the Importers and Manufacturers by he package. And here allow me to say that integrity is the vital spark of commercial life, and trains, the big cog-wheel that runs the tireless Engine, and Cash is that earnest and solid stuff that will buy goods cheap, and still in the Brains of the smartest merchants, there lurks a puzzle as to when goods will get to ha d pan or bottom prices. But I think every merchant of experience will coinside with me in saying that goods have not been sold within the last twenty-five years so low as they are this Spring, and I feel conficient in saying Goods, Wares and Merchandise have reached their bottom prices.

As many of them advanced and are still a lyancing, and it will only take a little along and financial skill to save money by buying goods before they further advance.

And in connection with this, let me say that you'see allkinds of advertisments, some selling at cost and below, and some say the bottom's out, and goods at hard-pan prices and various other kinds. But let me tell you, and Merchandise have reached their bot

That I suppose at least a thousand persons at this writing will know that CREECH'S is the place, and I expect to tell ten thous-and more within the next forty-eight as I want customers wherever to be found, and buyers with money to spare, so when you come to town, down town or up town, come to
